

Johnathan Garbutt

I am a dedicated and hardworking senior majoring in Biology at Benedict College. I aim to leverage my strong foundation in biological sciences and proven self-motivation to pursue a career in healthcare. I am particularly interested in exploring opportunities as a dental hygienist or optometrist after graduation, while remaining open to other related career paths. I excel at collaborating within teams and thrive when working independently, allowing me to contribute effectively to research, patient care, or clinical settings.
