

Adam Banks

Adam is an actor who worked with Isabel Fish, one of the best drama teachers in NZ, for over a decade. She won a New Zealander of the Year award & others, & has been teaching for over 30 years. They taught many people, & mostly actors & models. When teaching, Adam often had the role of improv actor or photographer.

As a TV actor, he had a featured role & has done 100s of hours of extra work. As an improv actor, he starred in public performances. As a model, he appeared in a book by Ilan Wittenberg. He has shot & been shot many times.

Since childhood, he has been able to confidently talk & work with people who are far more experienced. As a child, he worked for a car design business. Despite having never used their software, hearing of Linux or designing anything as complex as a car, he accepted the challenge. He has attended networking events with 100s of people, & quickly formed connections with artists & business people.

He has never declined a role due to the subject, & is comfortable with sex & violence. However, he is intolerant to UV radiation (he'd have to have sunglasses & his skin covered) & cigarette smoke.

He enjoys playing drama & other games with & learning about interesting people. He has been called fiercely intelligent & a lovely chap.

He has a car & scooter, & never been late for a job.
