Hello my name is chrystelle allanah davis, i am 26 years old college student that go to borough of manhattan community college. I am from the upper west side of harlem new york born and raised . I have a lot to say about living in new york, my past history and how i live up to my true self , wanting to see the truth is how i want you to view me or rather be viewed as.

Truth : In new york city growing up for me wasn't always as it seemed i went through a lot of problems ups and downs as all people do , but i consider myself different. I didn't have much friends growing up although upper manhattan is where i was raised , it's my childhood . In grade school things weren't always easy as i learned a lot of lessons just being enrolled in school . My view on college now is amazing , i get to study the things i want to learn like being a journalist. I know that i will be able to get the task done, on behalf of my strengths . I have things i want to accomplish and being at college is what's getting me started on my goals .

I went through most of my past struggles and challenges with the right guidance ,throughout my life time of only being 26 years old . Life can be very difficult at times for me as a young woman in the field . My experience being a strong individual is what pushes me to become a better version of my self everyday. My light will shine bright when it's time . I decided to breach out and discover the world , different places and things that took me on to a bright future with opportunities to discover , explore and experience . I moved to coney island in brooklyn to become an independant woman, focus on growth , career opportunites and so much more , my opportunities have grown and gotten bigger , my roots have spreaded and are ready to bloom , this is where it starts.

Modeling is my dream, it's one of my biggest goals and assets in my life , actually one of my biggest flaws as well. I officially started modeling when i was 19 years old at the new york makeup academy. Quitting was considered treason for my journey, that is when opportunities came dropping by. It is really rigorous being a beautiful woman because it's all about perfection. A beautiful art work piece a makeup artist did for me resembles peace, love and beauty. The photoshoots taken by a hardworking beautiful russian woman i will never forget olga almayeva , worked on it very hard . When i turned around , i thought to myself her work is astonishing , i've never looked more beautiful . Being a makeup model is very challenging because you have to know all of the skills and qualitys of being the perfect model , such as knowing how to pose and taking perfect flicts , how beautiful , creative and artistic you can be, working the camera and so much more details on how to be fabulous . My photos represents my work as a model and the artists as individuals. I know modeling could definitely be challenging in this industry, along with going to college to become a journalist , i have to stay very focused that's what i tell myself all the time. My brilliant creativity sparks light and is here for the world to see. I am here to share this background with you on behalf of my journey being a beautiful model with aspirations , my photo that represents my strength.

The beauty this natural look gives is beautiful, my work in modeling is astonishing.
