I have a passion for acquiring business and communicative skills, and am currently looking for a part-time job. Positive traits such as reliability, consistency and being ambitious are what I prioritize, I always seek to be respectful and open to new concepts when working in a team, as well as being open-minded to new tasks.

I have previous experience volunteering at an event centre where children were brought together to have fun, and I've been able to gain experience working with new people and meeting deadlines while still prioritizing quality.
