(208) 761-0277    sophiasellsemail@gmail.com

With over three years experience in event production, content creation for brand development and writing both professional and personal, I am honoured to have been part of so many hard working teams lead by women.

In January of this year while teaching English as a foreign language, I began a graduate master's degree in Psychoanalysis with an international school and now aim to continue laying bricks on the road to a long term career path in higher learning.
